

Woods Hole Resident Earns Professional Honors

Nicole Goldman of Woods Hole, owner of "g" Green Design Center of Mashpee, was honored by the National Association of the Remodeling Industry earlier this month.

The Cape Cod chapter of NARI recognized Ms. Goldman with the "Rookie of the Year" Award for her contributions to the group as a new member. The presentation was made when members and vendors met at the annual meeting and chapter anniversary dinner at the Dan'l Webster Inn in Sandwich on January 8.

Ms. Goldman, who joined the membership of NARI Cape Cod in January 2008, piloted the newly formed Green Team for the chapter. She and her committee have produced several membership programs for the group about green building techniques; presented monthly Green Minute tips for builders; and organized a study group for NARI's Green Building Certification program that begins February 4.

Ms. Goldman also heads up the Business Innovation Group of the Falmouth Chamber of Commerce, who has committed their programming this year to presenting information on how businesses can adapt their practices and services to be more green and eco-friendly.

NARI is a not-for-profit trade association dedicated to enhancing and supporting the remodeling industry and providing resource information and assistance to consumers requiring the services of a qualified remodeler. Members of NARI are full-service contractors, design-build firms, subcontractors, lenders, and other related professionals who work in the remodeling field. To become a NARI member, applicants are required to have a minimum of one year in the business and are subject to a vigorous screening and ethics review process.
