

IN THE PRESS

Reality TV star Alison Kelly will emcee a fashion show Saturday.

Ecofashion hits Cotuit runway

April 21, 2008

Former "Project Runway" contestant Alison Kelly will emcee an ecofashion show in Cotuit this weekend. Coordinated by former Cape Cod Times fashion columnist Amy DuFault, the show will benefit the G Foundation, which supports renewable energy and environmental education programs.

More than a dozen Cape and Boston boutiques will participate. Among the designers whose works will be displayed are Cheryl Fudge, Sarah Waldo and Kelly, who designs the Dahl clothing. Kelly, who grew up in Osterville, competed on Season 3 of "Project Runway" in 2006.

The theme of the show, which takes place Saturday at the Cotuit Center for the Arts, is "Fusing Style and Sustainability" The runway show begins at 4 p.m. and will be followed by a reception and silent auction. Tickets are $35 and $50.

For information, call 508-477-7988.